

Where you should celebrate St. Patrick's Day in New York

Frances Mulraney | @FrancesMulraney March 09, 2017 | 06:08 AM

Pick up a free book courtesy of the Irish Arts Center

The Irish Arts Center, based in Hell's Kitchen, Manhattan, will be asking you to “re-Joyce”, “go Wilde” and to “drink something NOVEL” this St. Patrick's day with their annual IAC Book Day. Gifting free books to New Yorkers at locations spread all over the city, you can #getLit in a different way by taking advantage of their generous 10,000-book giveaway and remembering all the great songwriters, poets, dramatists, and novelists the Emerald Isle has produced.

You can find all the information and locations where books will be handed out at <http://irishartscenter.org/getlit/>.